New York Association for Continuing/Community Education

Dear Colleagues:

I invite you to submit a presentation proposal for the 55th Annual NYACCE Conference to be held May 7-9, 2006 at the Marriott Hotel in Albany. Our conference theme is "The Many Faces of Continuing and Community Education...Unmasking the Potential."

Continuing and community education offers a myriad of possibilities for learners wanting personal and career development. Our theme this year focuses on "unmasking" our attributes to increase awareness in our communities regarding the benefits our programs bring to business, industry, and other communities.

The NYACCE Annual Conference offers a chance for practitioners to come together for professional development and networking among colleagues. If you have an idea that can help others "unmask the potential" through teaching strategies, marketing ideas, forming new collaborations, or other strategies, I encourage you to submit a proposal. Likewise, I ask you to share this Call for Presenters with others that you believe have valuable information to share.

Sincerely,

Laurie Bargstedt
